at the Knickerbocker Athletic Club on Friday night, the boat was stopped in the third round. Daily is heavyweight and his quick defeat was a surprise. He was clearly out of his element. He was in the contest with McCoy, who was trained to the fine form. It is said that Dale's leg was broken in the first round, but that is hardly likely. Both of his teeth were also knocked out, and he was taken to Roosevelt Hospital. The clue management, especially the referee, was very lax. Dale's condition would not have permitted him to have engaged in the contest.

POUGHKEEPSIE COURSE SATISFACTORY.
COMMENTS ON THE SELECTION OF THE COLLEGE REGATTA COMMITTEE.

The committee, composed of Professor H. S. White, Cornell; Thomas Reath, University of Pennsylvania; Guy Richards, Columbia; and R. C. Watson, Harvard, which met at the University Athletic Club on Saturday evening and decided that the four college regattas should be held at Poughkeepsie on the Poughkeepsie course on June 22, held so only after long deliberation. There were three courses to pick one from. It is understood that Harvard favored the Springfield course, Cornell the Saratoga course, and Columbia and the University of Pennsylvania the Poughkeepsie course. The question of all colleges meeting above the matter, however, and the course chosen by the committee will now undoubtedly be acceptable to all.

The main objection to the Poughkeepsie course has been the interference made by carfing going down the Hudson. But, as reported in yesterday's Tribune, Mr. Richards took a trip to Washington on Friday and reported that the bill providing protection for all colleges regattas and amateur regattas would probably become a law.

The section of the bill which is of special interest to yachting and rowing men reads as follows: "That of excursion steamers and for the safety of yachtmen and oarsmen taking part in regattas, amateur and professional rowers, and the like. The bill was passed by the House, the Secretary of the Treasury he and is hereby authorized and empowered to detail revenue cutters to protect the lives of passengers and crew as they may be adopted to assure the safety of passengers on said excursion steamers and the oarsmen and rowers on the same.

Walter Alexander, the secretary of the Harvard Club, was seen at his home, No. 46 West Twenty-ninth street, where he was recovering from a severe stroke he suffered for the Harvard crew about ten years ago. He said: "Of the three courses, I was never in the New York course, but I was in the other two, and I think I know the New York course as well as the best, but anything to keep away from Saratoga. However, even if the bill is passed I doubt if it will be of much use. It is a long time before the law is enforced. I think it is a very good law, but I am surprised there would be no trouble in this respect and another advantage that it has is that the respective clubs would be able to make their own regulations. The course that would like to see the races rowed over is the New York course. I believe that nearly all of the New York alumni share this feeling with me. There is no interference with the other two, it is wonderfully bracing for the crews while practising. I think the country is more beautiful and the water is better than the New York course. The rough water there that the crews will have to Poughkeepsie, but I was sorry to see the New York course. I think it is a very good course for the Poughkeepsie course for New-Yorkers is that they can go to the race without losing much time."
